

Senior Spotlight: Stuart Meyer

by Hailey Wacholz

Stuart Meyer was born on August 7, and his parents are Bruce and Stacey Bebo and Terry Meyer. He has four siblings named Jacklyn and Jason Meyer, and Cheyanne and Cooper Bebo.

The extra-curricular activities Stuart participates in include 4-H, FFA, and football. His accomplishments include 11 years in 4-H, reserve champion wether lamb at State Fair, Grand champion western showmanship horse, 3rd place at National 4-H horse judging, and he made it to the national shooting sports tournament. Meyer's hobbies include hunting, fishing, trapping, and anything outdoors.

When Stuart was younger he wanted to be a game warden. After he graduates he will be attending Mitchell Technical Institution for power line construction. In ten years Stuart sees himself coming back to South Dakota to settle down and find a good job somewhere east river.

When asked what his favorite high school memory was he replied, "When Kevin Gerber put a candy corn border on a volleyball brochure in the 7th grade." When he graduates he wants to be remembered as someone who was funny and he said, "Snow goose slayer, and the one who killed whitey."
